

Static gratings produce a weaker and less transient cross-mouse representational consistency than natural scenes

